MANAGEMENT COLLEGE

“...after I completed the 43rd Management College I took the promotion test for Captain ... I am pleased to report that I scored number one. I have to think that the study skills I learned in class assisted me in being able to study [and] having to speak before the class undoubtedly helped me pass the [oral] portion. I should be promoted in early June and I sincerely want to thank ... the instructors at ILEA. The Management College gave me new strength to continue on with my law enforcement career.”

A Reputation for Excellence:	From its inception in 1957, the mission of the Institute for Law Enforcement Administration has been to provide quality educational programs designed to enhance the professional development of law enforcement leaders at all levels. As the “flagship” program over that time, the Management College attracts participants representing municipal, county, state and federal law enforcement organizations across the nation.
A Track Record of Career Enhancement:	Mindful of the essential role it plays in helping prepare law enforcement leaders for the future, the Management College provides a challenging and intensive environment in which participants can learn, develop and test a range of success-oriented skills and abilities. The value of the Management College experience is best measured by the numbers of graduates who serve in leadership positions in organizations across the law enforcement profession.
Outstanding Faculty:	Nationally-known faculty representing colleges, universities, criminal justice agencies, and government entities from across North America, provide an unmatched learning experience. The impeccable credentials, broad experience, and outstanding teaching ability of this instructional team make the Management College a challenging and demanding course of study.
